

SUMMER NOVELTIES SEEN IN THE SHOPS AND HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Hint or Two About the Stove

Nowadays most persons use gas ranges, in the summer at least. How many know that a tin of water should always be kept in the oven? This prevents too great dryness and facilitates the cooking. If when baking this same oven should grow too hot, replace the ordinary tin of warm or hot water with a basin of ice water. This will cool the oven, and the steam which rises from the water will prevent the contents from burning. Beside the range keep always a bowl of vinegar and water, to prevent the smell of cooking from spreading through the house.

There are, on the other hand, many who use coal always, no matter how hot the weather. An economical hint for them will not come amiss in these days of high coal bills. If the fuel be placed in a dry and airy place it will burn much better than if placed in a close, badly ventilated cellar. Coal, whether hard or soft, that is excluded from the air soon gets rid of the gas which it contains, and the absence of this renders it more wasteful when burned.

Walking Pointers

In walking it is important to walk as if one enjoyed it. Few women walk as if it were a pleasure. Some wear heels so high that they are compelled to peg along. Others wear the low, flat heels that give a curious dumpy, lumpy walk. Then there are the women who walk with the side-to-side waddle. This is caused by heels that are run over and clothing that is too tight. It is also caused by carelessness. The waddle walk is an easy one to get in the habit of and a difficult one to overcome.

There are women who walk as if they were carrying a burden. They have the laborious motion of the shoulders which tells that they are uncomfortable.

If women could only be made to appreciate what an important part of good looks a graceful carriage is, there would be no more poor walkers among them.

Paris Patterns

No. 1950.

Ladies' Princess Kimono, With Skirt Joined to the Waist.

All Seams Allowed.

The kimono has come to be so much of a necessity to the woman at home, in her hours of negligence, that any adaptation of the original idea which embraces an element of novelty is received with enthusiasm. This present development is made of which habutai silk with a border of ciel blue. Made of the flowered challis, organdie, or lawn, of plain cashmere, nun's veiling of albatross, or any of the summer silks, it would develop charmingly.

The pattern is in seven sizes—22 to 44 inches, bust measure. For 36 bust the kimono needs 11½ yards of goods 20 inches wide, or 8½ yards 27 inches wide, or 6½ yards 36 inches wide, or 5½ yards 42 inches wide, each with 1½ yard of contrasting material 20 inches wide for the bands.

To obtain this pattern or any of the others heretofore described in The Times, fill out the following coupon and inclose it with 10 cents in an envelope addressed to the Fashion Editor, The Washington Times, Munsey Building, Washington, D. C.

Seen in the Shop

Little handkerchiefs in different colors to tuck in the glove.

To delight the small boy are play-suits, either Indian or a Rough Rider, at small prices. They come in a strong tan material and will stand a great deal of hard usage.

An odd little table of many shelves of dark wood, which were supported by legs of china decorated with different colored china flowers and leaves.

If one has a pair of old-fashioned bronze lamps, and also has electric lights, they could be used beautifully to light the room.

Among the latest handkerchiefs imported from France are some with tiny colored flowers embroidered in one corner, the border in colors and also embroidered. They are lovely to carry with the pretty summer cottons.

Little traveling clocks of brass or nickel in dark leather cases, just the clock you can carry in your traveling bag when going on a journey.

A new powder box shown is of white china fastened to a round flat base of the same, all ornamented with festoons of green vines and tiny pink roses. It is new and pretty.

Among the novelties shown is a powder box of white celluloid with small mirror set in the top of the lid.

Sofa pillow covers are shown in Russian crash worked in white. They are pretty and durable for summer pillows.

Silk kimonos are shown in Oriental patterns and plain colors trimmed with Persian borders, also light colored cashmeres and albatross wrappers with border of ribbon.

Kid gloves of French make are shown in tan shades that it is said can be easily washed.

Some of the new materials for men's shirts are Scotch madras, Russian cord, embroidered batiste Scotch flannel, English silk and wool and silk.

Handkerchief Games

Fetch and Carry.

In the way of a good active game for parlor or lawn try Fetch and Carry which is prepared for in this way.

Two handkerchiefs of any size and color desired convenient to hand are stretched taut and tacked down upon the floor (or the turf for an outdoors party as the case may be).

On one are placed twelve peanuts, the other remaining bare. Each player in turn receives a spoon. The fun consists in carrying the nuts to the empty handkerchiefs and then back again.

The feat must be accomplished carrying one nut at a time. The player accomplishing it in shortest time wins a prize, consequently some member of the group must be made timekeeper and each person's minutes closely watched.

Handkerchief Scramble.

A good substitute for music when the new and amusing scramble game is played out of doors, or when a piano is not accessible, is Handkerchief Scramble.

Nuts or small crackers, torpedoes or anything of a kind which can be searched for are hidden around the room or strewn through the grass. Baskets, or simply paper bags, are distributed among the company.

When the leader drops the handkerchief players begin to search for the booty hidden around them. The moment it is resumed they must immediately desert. The handkerchief is thrown down and resumed capriciously at most irregular intervals, making the search doubly exciting and involving many forfeits.

Anyone continuing to search after the handkerchief falls forfeits all he has previously collected, or a certain number of them, according to rules previously agreed on.

For the Housekeeper

In the purchase of glass and crockery ware, either the most customary pattern should be chosen, in order that they may be easily matched when preferred and extra quantity should be bought to guard against the set being broken.

A yearly inventory of furniture, china and silverware should be kept.

Potato Cakes With Vegetables

Cook a pound of floury potatoes and mash them until smooth with an ounce of butter, the yolk of an egg and a little pepper and salt. Sprinkle in just sufficient flour to make a paste that can be rolled without breaking. With a pastry cutter cut out some small patties. Fry in hot fat until a golden brown, or brush over with egg and bake in a hot oven. Fill these little cases with a mixture of peas and asparagus heads, which have been tossed until hot in melted butter. String beans, young carrots and turnips may be used in the same way; cut up in small pieces.

For Oily Hair

A lotion that will be found excellent for hair that is oily, to be rubbed on the head every other night, is the following one: Twenty grains of quinine sulphate, four drams of bayrum, one dram of tincture of capsicum, one dram of tincture of cantharides, and eight ounces of distilled water.

Potatoes With Green Peppers

To your usual hashed brown potatoes try adding a little chopped bacon and some minced green peppers. You have no idea how appetizing it is.

FROCK OF LINEN

Lavender linen was used for the gown pictured, the trimming of which consisted of stitched bands, buttons and very heavy white lace. The open kimono sleeves were made of the heavy lace, banded with linen, a little of the lace also being used on the yoke and sleeves, which were of white batiste, tucked in squares. The skirt was trimmed with three bias folds, cut in little tabs up the front.

Wishing and Willing

To wish and to will are very different things. Willing is a state of reason, and of the affections, and of the will, in activity, to secure what one desires. A man may wish, and yet reject all the steps and instruments by which that wish can be carried into effect. No man wills until he has made up his mind not only to have the end, but to have all the steps intermediate by which that end is to be secured. It is true that the will is generated sometimes from wishing, but it is as seeds become plants, by a total change. Wishing is the faint recognition of excellence, but without a purpose or a power of doing, or being, or securing that which is liked.—Deecher.

The Husband-Breaker

The ingenuity of the modern woman has discovered a new method of earning a competence. She breaks husbands. There have been women who made their living at breaking horses, but not until very lately did some emancipated feminine genius go in for husband breaking. Ingenious woman! For a moderate fee she is prepared to make a lengthened stay, and gradually mold the newly-married husband according to the pattern that his wife requires. Since Adam was driven from paradise it is doubtful if man has ever felt the effects of the fall so severely as he does at this moment!

Artistic Millinery

Early spring millinery seemed absolutely hopeless, but presto! here we have the ugly, freakish shapes modified into artistic, becoming confections, and the weird conglomeration of feathers, flowers, velvets, and ribbon transformed into graceful effects that at least take on simple lines. The exaggerated mushroom has given way to the cloche and the long, narrow, pointed turban has become a charming little rounded one that does not give the face the sharp contour of its sister. Flowers and foliage and made ornaments of chiffon, tulle or ribbon have taken the place of feathers, but wings remain smartest for anything that approaches the walking hat.

For Guest and Hostess

Entertain without seeming to entertain. Never allow yourself to look bored. Be perfectly unselfish regarding your own pleasure. Strive to keep a conversation going, but don't let your strivings be too obvious. Know when to ask the amateur musician to display his talent. Make each guest feel that his presence is the most greatly appreciated. Be punctual at the invited hour. Be responsive to the efforts made for your entertainment. If you are a guest for some days, adapt yourself to the habits of the house.

White Summer Gowns

All sorts of colored trimmings are being given to white summer dresses, says Harper's Bazar, and a fancy which, it must be admitted, is also a convenience and an economy, exists for the "jumper" linen dress, which makes possible the wearing of a pretty contrasting or self-toned blouse. Batiste waists of the same color as the jumper costume are popular, the batiste being soft and therefore unlikely to give the jumper worn over them an undue bulkiness. A typical costume of this variety is one in which plaited and striped linen are combined. Any striped fabric, such as chambray or summer silk, would make up as well.

Fried Savory Eggs

Shell carefully six hard-boiled eggs. Beat up an egg and dip the shelled eggs in it, then roll them in a mixture of fine bread crumbs, grated ham, and minced parsley, seasoned with pepper, and fry in boiling fat to a good brown. Place on a hot dish and serve with hot tomato sauce poured round.

For the Needle Worker

To finish the edges of dollies or other buttonholed edges cut the goods a little distance from the line where the buttonholing is to go and hem it back to that line. Then buttonhole the folded edge. This prevents the frayed-looking edge so often seen after washing and gives it a padded appearance.

Bernhardt's Skin Tonic

Sarah Bernhardt's famous skin tonic to use after the bath to make the flesh firm and elastic is famous the world over. You can prepare it yourself after the following formula: One-half pint of alcohol, two ounces of spirits of ammonia, five ounces of sea salt, and boiling water sufficient to make one quart. Put all in a bottle and agitate thoroughly. Rub into the skin with the hands. Shake always before using. It is an excellent plan when bathing the arms and neck for an evening dress to bathe them in this lotion. It also takes the fatigue from one's muscles after a long walk or much exercise.

Motor and Society

It is claimed the motor is responsible for the gradual decay of the London season. People who used to come up to town for three months and open their London houses now run up for a few days at a big hotel and then whisk off again to their country houses at the week-end. Consequently, they are in no position to give the little dances and the domestic dinners with their small and early crush afterward which used to make the season one long reign of frivolity.

Potato Souffle

Season two cupsful of hot mashed potatoes with butter, salt and pepper and a little minced parsley. Beat in half a cupful of milk and stir until the mixture is a smooth cream. The work will be done more speedily over hot water than if the potato is in a state of cooling. Fold in the whites of four eggs, beaten stiff, turn into a buttered dish and bake about ten minutes, or until the souffle is puffed and brown. Serve it immediately in the same dish or it will fall. The parsley may be omitted if it is not liked. Grated cheese sometimes is sprinkled over the top.

Save Witty Clippings

A neat little booklet for an invalid can be made by saving witty clippings and pasting in a small scrap book. Often when one is not able to read lengthy articles something bright and witty will help brighten the day. It should only be loaned and passed along where it would probably be the most appreciated. Little pieces can be pasted on cards and are much more easily held by persons lying in bed. Bright pictures, comic and otherwise, are nice for a good laugh and amusement to the impatient little sufferers who must remain in bed.

Fashion Novelties

"The very newest items, if one may call such conspicuous features items, are the folded girdle, with sash ends, the long sashes of full width silk crepe, or chiffon; the sash, and sash, and the enormously long veils that are widely adopted for summer hats. These veils are made of full-width chiffon, says Harper's Bazar. They are wound once about the crown of the hat, and caught firmly together in the back at the center, whence they float quite to the foot of the dress."

Idea for June Luncheons

A pretty luncheon table for the month of roses is achieved by the use of simple little terracotta flower pots. After having been carefully boiled, the pots should be filled with vanilla ice cream. Over this surface is sprinkled enough chocolate crumbs to simulate an earthy bed. The completing touch is a rose bud, some of its foliage, which when stuck in the cream gives the effect of a growing plant. One should be set at the plate of each guest.

Improving Cucumbers

If those housekeepers who complain of a bitter taste to their cucumbers will begin at the blossom end when paring and slice the skin off toward the stem, they will find that it makes a decided difference in the flavor.

Potato Apples

Take two cupsful of hot, finely mashed or rice potatoes, mix through them two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-third of a cupful of grated cheese, half a teaspoonful of salt, a little cayenne pepper and grated nutmeg, two tablespoonfuls of thick cream and yolks of two eggs. Heat this up and shape in the form of small apples. Roll in flour, eggs and crumbs. Brown in deep, hot fat.

The Sabbath School Teacher

If the preacher must be paid for delivering a series of sermons throughout the year to his audience, why not pay the teachers? The teacher is expected to teach the doctrines of the Bible, to know exactly how to answer all questions, the work at hand must be carefully studied, and the teacher has many, many difficult things to do. There are too many Sabbath school teachers holding such positions who know nothing about the work. They may be good Christians, have a certain amount of Bible lore in mind, but to teach—well, that is quite a different thing. Why not be educated for the work and receive remuneration for the duties? There would be more satisfaction in the work, and it only seems reasonable that a good teacher should be remunerated for his or her services from year to year in the churches.
